PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

I am pleased to speak for all the members of the Service League of Union Hospital. We are happy to welcome you to our tenth magnificent Show House.

Probably all of you visiting our Show House have had some connection with Union Hospital--either as a patient, family of a patient, or as a friend of one. Still, you probably are not aware of all that the Service League does to make the patient's stay more comfortable. We are here as an emotional crutch between the patient and the medical professionals.

We are proud of all our volunteer programs, but the Show House is our biggest and best! The profits enable the hospital to purchase the latest, state-of-the-art equipment and, thus, to help provide the best possible health care for our community.

Today, more and more people receive better odds of surviving devastating health problems. Union Hospital has requested that the priority for proceeds from this Show House be earmarked for the purchase of sophisticated monitoring equipment to be used in the Medical Intensive Care Unit and for arrhythmia detection equipment to be used in the Post Coronary Care Unit.

I want to thank Tom and Carrie Koutsoumpas for donating their beautiful home. Thanks, also, to Susie Dinkel and Margot Gillespie, our Show House Chairmen, for their many, many hours of hard work and decision making. In addition, their dedicated steering committee deserves our deepest gratitude.

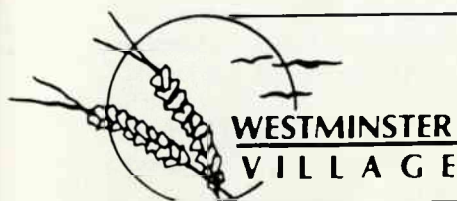

The list goes on and on as we thank all the willing designers, our generous patrons, sponsors, advertisers, the media, and last, but not least, you, the supportive community.

We hope to exceed 1989's proceeds of $46,678.48. Our aim is to make Union Hospital's Medical Intensive Care Unit and Post Coronary Care Unit the best that can be provided.

Mrs. Joyce Noroozi
President, Service League of Union Hospital

HISTORY

of the Real Estate at 72 Allendale

The real estate now commonly known as 72 Allendale in Terre Haute, Vigo County, Indiana was the subject of a United States Patent to Darius Donham in 1828. Darius Donham was the owner of the real estate which now comprises all of Allendale. He operated an extensive farming operation. Upon his death on February 28, 1902, he left surviving him one child, a son Allen H. Donham, who inherited his vast real estate holdings.

Shortly after inheriting the property, now known as 72 Allendale, Allen H. Donham and his wife, Julia, decided to build a family home on the property which was, at that time, largely wooded and without access by road. The work preparing the land for construction began early in 1903, with construction of roadways being undertaken at that time. The property was sold by Allen and Julia Donham to Wilbur Topping and his wife, Clara Topping, on November 13, 1906.

Wilbur and Clara Topping immediately began construction of a residence on the property which had already been cleared, roadways constructed, and prepared for construction of a residence. They commissioned a well known architect of the period, Alfred Grindle, to design the residence in the Spanish Colonial Revival style which was his trademark. Topping persuaded Grindle not only to design the home, but to supervise personally some aspects of its construction, inducing him to leave Boston, where he was living at the time, and to reside with the Toppings in the first portion of the house constructed to supervise the construction of the "great" portion of the home. Alfred Grindle is believed to have come to the Topping home several times over a period of the next three years to supervise the final completion of the home.

First constructed on the site was the back portion of the home consisting of a kitchen, dining room, and two bedrooms and a bath above. In addition, there was an area which is now a utility room, and was then a stable with a loft above the stable. The loft is now a bedroom.

Wilbur and Clara Topping lived with their family in this portion of the home, during the period of time that the "great" portion of the home was under construction. The total construction time was three years. The original portion of the home and the "great" portion were finally joined in the final stage of construction by an expansive hallway which connected the two sections of the home.

Alfred Grindle, designed the expansive hallway as a means of connecting the two portions of the home. The upstairs hallway is lined with windows giving a dramatic view of the whole area. After the "great" portion of the home was completed the Toppings occupied it, and a staff of servants resided in the original portion of the home.

The home built by Wilbur and Clara Topping is in the Spanish Colonial Revival style, which is characterized by a stucco exterior with large and expansive windows throughout the home. In addition, the Spanish Colonial Revival style features six grey brick fireplaces. The brick was obtained from special quarries in and around the Boston area and imported to Indiana by Alfred Grindle for construction in the Topping home. These grey brick fireplaces are located in the living room of the home, the library, dining room, master bedroom, guest bedroom, and the ballroom located on the third floor of the home. The Spanish Colonial Revival architecture is further punctuated by the unique use of natural woodwork, beamed ceilings, large windows with window seats, and by foyers and porches throughout the home. A large ballroom was constructed on the third floor of the home for entertaining many friends in the area.

Wilbur and Clara Topping sold the home to Gertrude Preston Hulman on June 30, 1915. By contrast to the very sociable Topping family, Gertrude Preston Hulman lived very quietly in the home for the next fourteen years before selling the property to Walter and Wilma Palmer in early 1930. Walter and Wilma Palmer refurbished the Spanish Colonial Revival style of the home. They entertained extensively and again the ballroom on the third floor experienced a happy revival.

Travelling abroad extensively during their ownership of the home, Walter and Wilma Palmer rented the home during the period of time from early 1936 to early 1940, during which time Paul and Mabel Bogard occupied the home. Paul Bogard was a prominent local attorney, president of the Terre Haute Trust Company, and was also one of the founders and later president of the Merchants National Bank of Terre Haute.

Paul and Mabel Bogard had two married daughters, Mary Royse, wife of James S. Royse, and Sally Blake, wife of Tony Blake. Mary and her husband James S. Royse, who was also an officer and later president of Merchants National Bank, resided with Paul and Mabel Bogard briefly as did Sally Blake and her husband Tony when they returned to settle in the community when Tony Blake became a Professor at Rose Poly Technic Institute.

After Paul and Mabel Bogard left the residence at 72 Allendale, it was occupied by Virginia Root, who is the widow of Chapman Root. Virginia Root and her children occupied the home for a period of time until she remarried. Virginia Root married Tubby Maxwell, and Mr. and Mrs. Maxwell occupied the home at 72 Allendale for several years prior to the home finally being sold again to Donald and Ruth Longyear in March 1949.

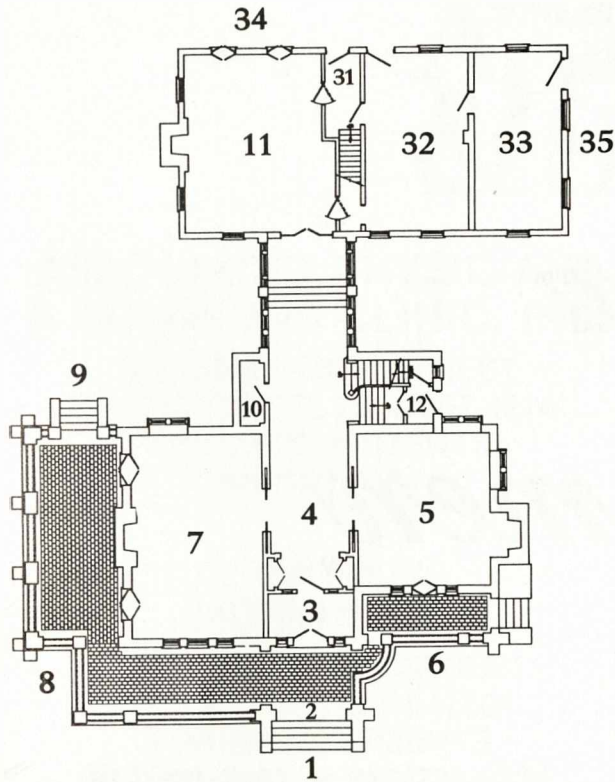

Donald Longyear was an executive with the Seagram Brewing Company. He and his wife, Ruth, had four children who lived in the property until April 21, 1959.

The ownership of the property was transferred on April 21, 1959 to Dr. Richard J. Reynolds and his wife Mary L. Reynolds. The home remained in the Reynolds family for a period of over 30 years, during which time the Reynolds family raised five children. The home was restored to the Spanish Colonial Revival architecture during the time the Reynolds family owned the property.

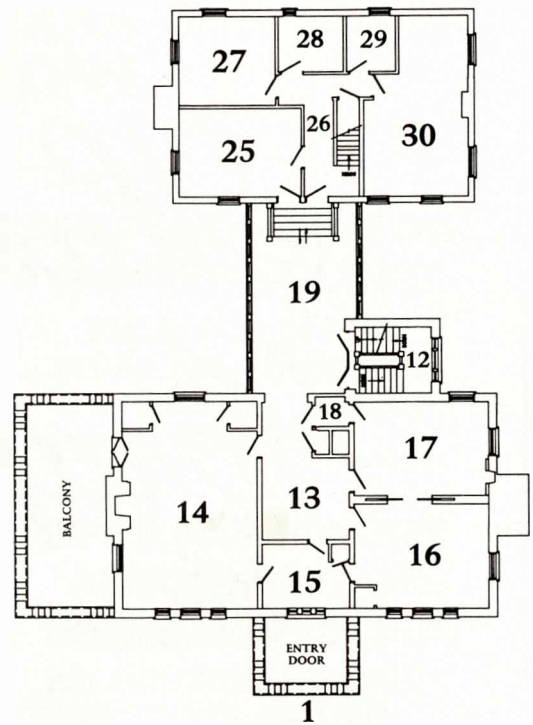

Mrs. Reynolds worked with the Vigo County Historical Society of Indiana and, as a result, the property was later featured in the Vigo County Interim Report of Indiana Historic Sites and Structures by the Division of Historic Preservation and Archeology, Indiana State Museum, Indianapolis, Indiana.

In August 1989 the real estate was sold to its present owners.

Simply Elegant. The clean, crisp lines of this year's Show House are reflected in the front landscape designed and installed by Bunch Nurseries, Inc. The relationship between home and landscape is coordinated to create an expression of unity and eloquence.

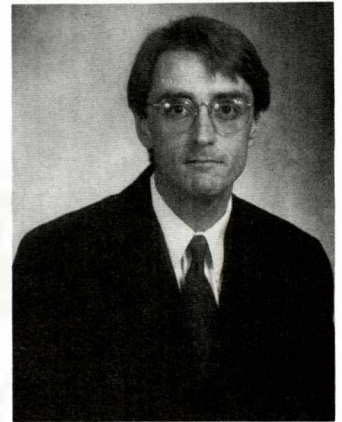

As one walks across the porch to the East, a delightful garden beckons further investigation. This garden was created to show the process from landscape design to actual landscape installation. From the design drawing to the garden layout, one can see three-dimensionally the concept from its origination to its realization in this romantic garden.

Welcome, please come in...

In this transitional space between the exterior and interior you have your first impression of the traditional elegance of yesteryears.

Architectural features are a key element in the vestibule. Here you have handsome panelling of rich woods, black and white tiled flooring and an abundance of beveled glass. All of which are reflective of the attention to detail and styling by master craftsmen of another era. You will see many examples of these features throughout this fine home.

With warmth and hospitality the vestibule guides its guests into the main hall.

Dining in the Koutsoumpas home is sure to be a memorable experience. The understated elegance of the dining room reminds one of days when this room was regarded as highly formal, but adapts to today's more casual lifestyle without feeling at all stuffy.

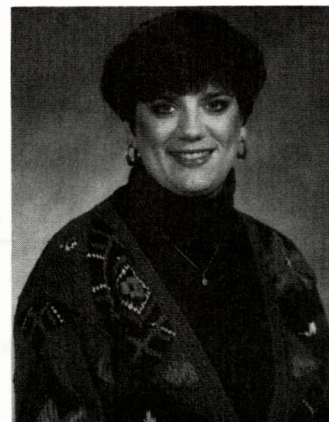

The subtle yellow of the walls is repeated in the table coverings. Flowers abound, giving softness to the generously sized room. Furnished with heirlooms from their families, the dining room serves as a constant reminder of the Koutsoumpas' loved ones and welcomes those who enter to "Come, enjoy!"

Can't you just imagine finishing off a delightful dinner with coffee and dessert served with guests seated around the fireplace? Brunch in this room will be equally enjoyable in this sunny area. Both family and friends will relish their invitations to dine at the Koutsoumpas'.

Romance is back and it makes a definite statement here in your own personal retreat. The soft tones of pink and green lend a lush contrast to the cherry wood furniture and elegant brass bed. The room is complete with fine accessories and collectibles. What a charming place to snuggle in front of the magnificent fireplace on a cold winters night. Come spring you can refresh yourself each morning on your own personal terrace which leads from this exceptional master suite.

The master bath continues the freshness of colors from the master suite. You can finish off your day by relaxing in the authentic cast iron bathtub full of nice scents and bubble bath. Here you can return to a time of long ago.

Photographs reflect the personality and spirit of your family for you to enjoy and treasure through the years.

A portrait should be more than just looking at the camera. It should capture an emotion and suspend it in time forever.

French country has a meaning and form all its own. It is carving: Images of foliage and shells that celebrate nature. It is faïence: Earthenware pottery born of graceful line and a generous spirit. It is ironwork: Masterpieces of self expression wrought in lacy metal. Indolently inviting as a Saturday afternoon nap, this suite takes the tensions of the outside world and calmly lays them to rest; a room with live in comfort that answers our need for retreat and renewal. Like a friendly neighbor with a yarn to tell, these furnishings beckon us near with a wave of arm and a promise of warmth.

In our little hideaway you can indulge yourself in your favorite pastime - paint, read, write, or just sit quietly and dream away the problems of the day. Spring-like colors, and simple, classic lines; these are the keys to comfort and relaxation in this niche tucked quietly away on the third floor. The French Country furniture lends warmth to this cozy room - the perfect place to curl up and sip a cup of tea.

This spacious kitchen and small pantry were really a challenge. Rough, poured concrete walls have been camouflaged by the artistry of our painter in a design consisting of a top glaze over a darker base with added touches. Accented by our patterned ceiling and white woodwork we have accomplished a very striking effect. Bright yellow and terre cotta, mixed with blues, textures and patterns brings about a cheery yet comfortable kitchen.

Mighty Oaks Landscaping
2215 Lafayette Avenue
Terre Haute, IN 47805
(812) 466-6807

Mighty Oaks objective for this Show House was a matter of FORM, FIT & FUNCTION. Form a design that creatively displays as many SERVICES as aesthetically possible that Mighty Oaks Landscaping has to offer. Fit the design to complement the architectural design of the Show House, yet remain Functional for the young family environment that is a prerequisite for the Koutsoumpas' lifestyle

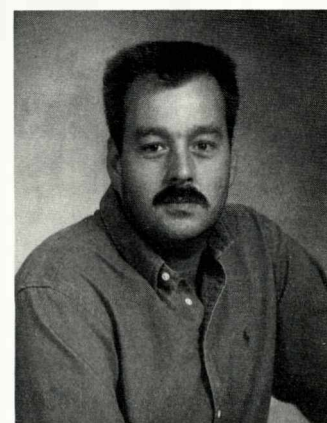

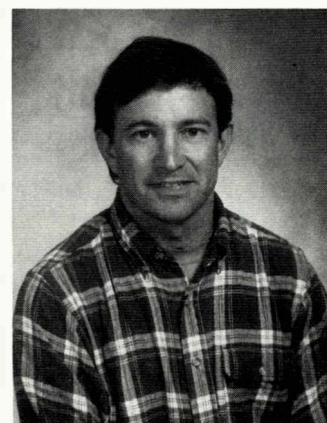

Working under the constraints of an existing chain link fence and the only access from the house to the backyard being a service entrance; we chose to construct a brick landing and walk that leads to the drive of the Show House, making this an easily maintained functional service entrance for the Koutsoumpas'.

From the brick landing, you step up to a treated wood deck designed to provide lounging space as well as an eating area while maintaining a traffic flow to the main lawn. To enhance the eating area we constructed an arbor, which also functionally provides shade to the area.

The center walkway flows to the main lawn. We elected to bed the parameters of the yard as well as the deck areas to best display our innovative designs of shrubbery and floral gardens with ornamental trees and natural stone accents. Keeping the young boys in mind, we built a wood play area blending it in to the setting as naturally as possible.
